

AMERICANS FOR FREE ★ TRADE

March 18, 2019

Governor Chris Sununu
Office of Governor
State House
107 North Main Street
Concord, NH 03301

Dear Governor Sununu,

As you know, the economy of New Hampshire is reliant not only on the hard work and ingenuity of businesses, farmers, manufacturers, and workers in your state, but it is also dependent on global markets. The goods and services New Hampshire imports and exports to the world help support individuals and families across your state. Today, international trade supports over 160,000 jobs across New Hampshire. We appreciate your continued recognition of the role of trade and global supply chains as critical economic drivers in your state.

Our companies and associations joined together to form Americans for Free Trade, a growing coalition comprised of manufacturers, farmers and agribusinesses, retailers, technology companies, service providers, natural gas and oil companies, importers and exporters, and other supply chain stakeholders. We are united in our concern about the negative impacts that indiscriminate tariffs continue to have on U.S. businesses, workers and consumers.

We write today to inform you of the mounting toll that tariffs are taking on New Hampshire. New statistics we released, which were derived directly from monthly government data, show that New Hampshire businesses have paid over $35 million in added tariffs through December of last year. In December 2018 alone, the tariffs New Hampshire businesses paid on imports rose to $9.6 million, an increase of over 11 times what was paid in December 2017. While business owners are often picking up the tab for this increase in costs, they are also being passed on to consumers across your state.

The data also shows that Made-in-New Hampshire exports are suffering under the weight of retaliatory tariffs. Since the trade war began, New Hampshire exports have faced $12 million in new retaliatory tariffs from our trading partners, including $2.4 million in December. These tariffs make New Hampshire and its businesses less competitive. In December, New Hampshire exports subject to retaliation dropped by 22%.

While the United States is currently in a period of unprecedented economic growth and job creation, continued prosperity is not a foregone conclusion. As the statistics we released show, tariffs are already undercutting small business owners, the primary driver of economic growth and job creation. The additional threat of raising tariffs to 25 percent on $200 billion worth of imports from China – and the threat to impose a similar duty on $267 billion more of such products – will only make the situation worse. This also includes the continuing tariffs and retaliation over the steel and aluminum 232 actions. Continuing to escalate the trade war will drive uncertainty across all industries, increase stock market volatility, and create more stories of economic pain, which we are already seeing on a daily basis.

As a coalition, we agree that our trading partners must be held accountable for unfair trading practices. However, punishing American businesses and families with tariffs that they – not foreign countries – pay is not the answer.

Over decades, Americans have built global supply chains that reflect the U.S. economy's strengths and those of its trading partners. These supply chains have made the U.S. economy even more dependent upon relationships with key economic and strategic allies than ever before. Supply chains are extremely complex, and they cannot be shifted overnight. The disruption caused by the use of tariffs threatens to harm these key relationships and damage the U.S. economy, which still remains extremely strong.

Americans for Free Trade has joined with Farmers for Free Trade to support the “Tariffs Hurt the Heartland” campaign (www.tariffshurt.com) to highlight the negative impacts of the tariffs on businesses large and small, workers and families. We hope you will lend your support to AFT's efforts across the country and help to carry our message to the people of your great state. We also strongly encourage you to work with the New Hampshire Congressional delegation and to use your powerful platform to prevent further harm to your state's workers, consumers, and families that will result from both the existing and proposed tariffs.

We invite you to learn more about the negative impact of tariffs in New Hampshire by visiting www.tariffshurt.com/state-impact-reports. If you have questions about the AFT coalition, please visit www.americansforfreetrade.com or contact info@americansforfreetrade.com.
